

Essay in English:

MOBILE PHONES: A REAL HUMAN PROBLEM

Realized by: ALINA STETIUC
XI form, high school

Mobile PHONES:A REAL HUMAN PROBLEM

Everyone has a mobile phone. When each of us buys a mobile phone, firstly he thinks: "I won't have problems anymore, I will save my time thanks to a simple call that will make me know where my child is, where or with whom my husband or my boyfriend is and if my daughter is okay after a long trip from Boston to Chicago..." One of the advantages of the mobile phone is that it has a convenient size, is easy to use and has a list of functions that you need. The main advantage of mobile phone is that you can find the person you need very quickly without going somewhere to call him/her. The mobile phone gives you the biggest percentage of intimacy, it means that nobody will know who is calling you, what kind of message you received or with whom you flirted last time. It's discreet and personal. You can call, you can send a message whenever or wherever you are, in the bus, in the shop, at work, during an important meeting with your clients. The mobile phone is a way to express your feelings without having terrible emotions like in some tete-a-tete situation with your boyfriend, your husband, your mother maybe. Just simple symbols from the text-messaging language can bring you a lot of information. Also, your mobile phone can substitute the time when you're bored with the interesting and useful one, for example if your mobile has a radio you can listen music in the bus or the last news or the last hits. A camera in the mobile phone can help you when you don't have the usual one with you, but you have met an old friend and you want to take a picture with him. Another point in favor of mobile phones is that you may need sometimes an alarm, a calculator, a voice recorder, games for entertainment and a calendar. In a survey of mobile-phones 44% said that text messaging meant that they are told their partner they loved them more often, 53% used it to apologize after quarrels, and 64% said that text messages are good way to flirt with people they'd like to know better. People use mobile phones to communicate in night-clubs where the music is too loud to talk. It's discreet and cheap, it's personal and faster to solve your problems, you can send or receive a message on a bus, in a meeting or in class during the lesson and nobody will know this!!!! All these things are positive but which are the negative aspects of our mobile phones??? Personally, I think that the mobile phone is the most dangerous enemy for my health, because it gives a great dose of radiation while dialing. The consequences of the atmosphere pollution can be noticed before 20—50 years, but the consequences of using the mobile every day just for chatting 10 minutes can be a serious reason for getting cancer in no more than 10 or 15 years!!! The science proved that in the egg's experience!! An egg between two mobile phones dialing 24 hours without pausing boiled the egg.

Unfortunately, people doesn't realize that their health is the most important thing they have and because of the new-high technology they can loose it and will be too much late to change something.